Growing

The distinguished faculty lines up to enter the Fine Arts Center in their scholarly attire for the annual Opening Convocation on September 4, 1997. (Below)

A Spiritual Opening

"People aren't afraid of dying; they are afraid of never having lived." -- Harold Kushner

What is Convocation? Is it merely a tradition of giving out awards, listening to a few speeches or an excuse to miss the first fifteen minutes of your twelve o'clock class? Maybe to some it is only an ordeal, but to me it's a celebration of education and a chance for the Wake Forest community to gather together as a unified body, in appreciation of Wake Forest, and in anticipation of the year that has barely begun.

This year's opening convocation was unique because the event was held in Brendle Recital Hall because Wait Chapel was still undergoing renovation. Due to limited seating, many people could only hear about the event. Kicking off the Year of Religion in American Life theme, Rabbi Harold Kushner, author of When Bad Things Happen to Good People, spoke of religion giving us the confidence of knowing that our lives are significant, and said, "people are not afraid of dying; they are afraid of never having lived." At the end of the convocation, Kushner focused on two points, "never forget the community of which you are a part," and "never forget that God exists." "God is with you," he said as the crowded audience of students, faculty, and community members rose to their feet in applause. His inspirational words left hope for the beginning of the new academic year.

Ties That Bind

"Even miles away, Family Weekend made me feel like I was home again."

Dad eating a waffle in the Pit? Little Alex at a frat party? Mom at the tailgate party? Has anybody checked Lucifer's thermostat?

Kristin Thompson

Maybe this is some weird psych experiment and I'm drugged. But this is no psych experiment; this is Family Weekend, a university sponsored annual event.

Cars, buses, and planes bring families to campus on September 19, and I enjoy my first high quality meal since August. Although some decide to spend the night away from roommates and shower shoes, my younger sister spends the night in Bostwick with me.

Saturday brings mobs to the Deacon Shop and Hanes Mall as we all await the oncoming battle against Georgia Tech. As game time rolls closer, massive tailgating spreads through the parking lots and over to the Fair Grounds. Here, the more organized Family Tailgate offers food and games.

As Mom and Dad attempt to recapture their youth by chanting and singing the fight song, I eagerly watch the game. The Demon Deacons make a valiant effort against Georgia Tech.

Sunday comes and goes fairly quickly with church services, a brunch in upper Benson, pictures, and a few tearful good-byes. All in all, a memorable weekend.

Ghosts, Goblins, and Goodwill

"Project Pumpkin gives everyone a chance to slow down and help the kids have fun and feel important."

-Ashley Reed

An unsuspecting student (to protect his identity, we will call him Tim) wanders out of his hole in the library and up to the Quad. Gasp! "Who has dared to step over the sacred chain link fences and broken the J. Crew dress code?" A quick glance at his watch relieves Tim's anxiety. October 30th has crept up and Project Pumpkin is in full swing.

As our recovering Tim stumbles toward the frantic mass, he begins to see the individuals. While holding Gumby's hand, a four year old boy wonders at a balloon dog. A group of four dance and chatter excitedly about "when we're cheerleaders...", and two future football stars get signatures and tips from their favorite Demon Deacons.

A contagious smile infects Tim's face as he ventures into Taylor. Sugar-shocked children, followed by costumed escorts, race through the towers, knock on doors, giggle "Trick or Treat", and shove handfuls of Snickers into sagging bags. An oversized playing card sneaks a forbidden Milky Way.

Tim chuckles to himself as he realizes that Project Pumpkin masks only Wake students' faces, not their compassion.

Dave Frisvold

FYI: Volunteers spent 350 hours organizing the event. Additionally, 850 hours were dedicated to the community through "agency plunges" into the invited centers and programs.

The decorating committee showed talent and creativity in these scary faces. (Below)

Homecoming

"Saturday morning dawned clear and dedicated fans arrived on the Quad or in the stadium parking lots."

Homecoming. The word reeks of tradition. Football, cheerleaders, and tailgating make up the perfect picture of "the American life" - "the Wake life."

Green T-shirts, portraying our mighty Deacon harassing the Clemson Tiger, appeared around campus as pre-game spirit built throughout the week. The anticipation continued to build as voting took place in Benson. Who would be crowned the lucky King and Queen? A pep rally topped off the week's events and everyone prepared for the weekend.

Carlton Ward

Saturday morning dawned clear and dedicated fans arrived on the Quad or in the stadium parking lots. The Quad held the festivities of a carnival. Sponsored by the Student Union and Student Alumni Council, it offered games and the entertainment of jugglers, clowns, the marching band, cheerleaders and a carrillon concert.

Tailgating, an essential in the Homecoming tradition, began early due to the 12:00 kickoff. The parking lots filled with alumni and students, eager for the oncoming battle against the Clemson Tigers.

The first quarter led fans to believe the game would be exciting, yet victorious. However, the Deacs' luck turned and resulted in an unfortunate 33-16 loss. Nevertheless, the Homecoming spirit stayed alive, ready to be rekindled in '98.

As The Leaves Fall!

Geoff Colman

The air is a bit cooler, the leaves are changing colors, what time of the year is it? That's right class, Fall, and it's time for Fall Break, too. While Fall Break is actually only one Friday, it makes an extra-long weekend for students to visit friends and family or to stay on campus. Many students enjoy driving to the Appalachian Mountains to look at the breathtaking mountains with the colorful display of the changing leaves. However, lots of students use the break to catch up on studying and sleeping while staying here on campus. Whether it's fun in the sun, or relaxing in the shade, Fall Break is one of those weekends that we students cherish every year.

A Glance into the Theatre

When we want to laugh, when we want to cry, when we want to see true love or a display of bitter hatred, where do we go? While you may think the Pit, actually it's the theatre. Our theatre is a place where we can see our peers taking on roles that may help us to come to a better understanding life. It is a place where students can find release and can lose themselves in the plot and in the lives of the characters on stage. It's all about the theatre.

"So what are we going to do tonight?" These are the words that are rarely spoken here at WFU because of the numerous events and attractions planned for students throughout the year.

Some favorites from this year include the popular singing group, The Indigo Girls and comedian, Adam Sandler. Both were sponsored by the Student Union. An annual treat to WFU is hypnotist Tom Deluca who makes student volunteers perform amazingly absurd acts that they cannot consciously control.

The Lilting Banshee Comedy Troupe always draws a huge crowd of students because of their hilariously realistic comedies about life at Wake Forest. They find humor in everything from the Pizza Hut delivery service to the campus voice mail. "If you can't laugh at yourself then you probably can't laugh at yourself."

A Night of Tradition

"There is a mystical, powerful affirmation about it that is appropriate for the season." -- Ed Christman

Christmas time is almost here and before final exams begin, the entire WFU Community gathers together for the Lovefeast tradition. Students and community members come in from the cold December evening to find warmth inside Wait Chapel. Warm smiles greet you as you find your seat among hundreds of others who came to celebrate the season. The congregation stands together and sings traditional Christmas Carols.

This year The Concert Choir, The Handbell Choir, and The Flute

Dave Frisvold

Choir performed. Everyone in the congregation receives the traditional sweet coffee and Moravian bread.

For the grand finale, as is the tradition, everyone in the building lights their candle and the entire auditorium is filled with a warm candlelit glow.

Lovefeast is a time of unity and togetherness as the Moravians intended it to be when the tradition began. From the warm smiles which greet you when you enter, to the warm coffee and Lovefeast buns, the Lovefeast leaves its guests with a happiness and a hope that can be found within.

In 1997-1998, the magnificent City of London and Wake's very own Worrell House once again served as the international home for twenty-seven Wake students. The Women's Studies Department ventured to the city in the fall, and the following semester students from the Business School studied in the Worrell House for the first time since it opened in 1977.

The four-story building at 36 Steele's Road houses a select group of students traveling with a WFU professor. The location in Hampstead, contains a plethora of elegant houses, most built in the nineteenth century for painters. Today many of the houses are occupied by artists of another type, including musician, Noel Gallagher, lead singer for the band Oasis. The street is constantly lined with eager fans and students who hope to catch a glance of their famous neighbor.

Courses vary from semester to semester, but most students take a class on the history of London, a British Theatre class that takes students to the theatre at least once a week, and a British art course taught by the great art historian, Brian Allen. Additional classes are catered to the group studying there for a particular semester.

This year was a big one for London Wake students, as the country mourned the death of Princess Diana, and peace was reached in Northern Ireland.

It was a beautiful, sunny October day in Venice, the first nice day after a long cold spell. Brad Strunk, Sarah Austrin-Willis and I decided to take a vaporetto (water bus) across the canal to visit the church of San Giorgio Maggiore, on a nearby island. Everything followed your textbook visit to a church. Coming back, we disembarked the boat and, since the sun was out for the first time in a week, I suggested that we take the longer route back to Casa Artom and soak in the beautiful day. But I didn't mean that literally. Yes, graceful as a swan, or rather an oil-lathered eel, I took a step into a strip of slimy moss and slithered right into the delectable waters of the infamous canal. Such a maneuver I made as has rarely graced (or rather, insulted) the beauty of this city.

This was a special semester for our group. We formed tight friendships that we'll carry with us for life. Among the highlights of the semester: the Venetian Film Festival and seeing "Wings of the Dove" in Venice in an open-air theatre; "Speedos on the Lido"; the Venetian Regatta; cooking lessons with Luciana (one of our beloved Italian housekeepers); Shaul.....BASSI!; the Board of Trustee visit; wacky fall break trips; Daveed's bucking camel; Emily's canal spill; risotta alla strunk; vino; the San Salute Festival; Casa Artom Moravian Lovefeast; chivey chivey; Lucia and the squid; and Sarah's banana bread and cookies.

YEAR of RELIGION

The Year of Religion in American Life gave students, faculty, and the WFU community an opportunity to debate and educate one another on differing religious perspectives. It opened opportunities for people to listen to one another and learn how deeply and extensively religion affects all of our lives. By bringing to campus individuals who represented a wide variety of religious traditions, the Year of Religion uncovered the fountain of religious variety that already existed on campus. According to Bill Leonard, the Dean of the Divinity School, the purpose of holding the Year of Religion is to "reaffirm the university's religious roots while addressing the nature of religion present and future."

The tree represented in the Year of Religion logo is derived from the Shaker tree of life. The embodiment of knowledge, life, and growth, this tree is a meaningful symbol in a multitude of various faith traditions.

A TOOL FOR IDENTITY

Bill Moyers, a well known religion commentator, lectured on Religion in American Life. (Above, top). Baptist Minister and advisor to President Clinton, Tony Campollo expressed that "Self is an essence waiting to be created through commitments." (Middle).

One of the most powerful aspects of religion is its ability to bring us away from the mundane world, and closer to the ultimate. Religion helps us to escape the limits of humanity and to become something more. If we can envision a perfection in our society or world, religion gives us the strength and perseverance to continually strive for what we might become. Religion to many is empowerment. Primarily, this is because religion shows us that there is some higher state of existence, there is a goal line in our race. Religion is a tool for identity. It helps us to not be ashamed of who we are and what we can achieve, because it makes us aware that we have a place in a realm that has importance within this world, and beyond. Religion has been at the heart of so many great societal changes. Oppressive governments have been overthrown, and captives have been freed, all because people got the notion that they were important in the scheme of existence. Who is it that can deter someone standing behind the authority of the ages. And, as long as this empowerment is used for good and wise purposes, it will remain one of the most beautiful aspects of the phenomenon called religion.

The Whirling Dervishes of Turkey - members of the Mevlevi Order of Sufism, a mystical branch of Islam, gave a performance of the Sema Ceremony. The Sema Ceremony consists of meditation in movement performed by Six Whirlers with traditional music accompanying The Whirlers. The Whirling Dervishes entered the stage in black cover and tall hats and cast off their black cloaks revealing white robes which symbolize spiritual rebirth. The Dervishes begin spinning and believe this spinning ceremony is a way to attain spiritual perfection. Along with the whirling, the performance included Sufi poetry, chanting, and traditional music.

A JOURNEY OF PASSION

On Palm Sunday, more than 80 members of the Wake Forest community performed the Promenade Passion Play the same way it would have been done in the Middle Ages - outdoors without a stage. The Passion Play included various episodes of Jesus Christ's life set in the natural surroundings of the WFU campus. The audience, with children running ahead of their parents to catch a glimpse of Jesus, followed him as he carried his cross to his crucifixion.

Chaplain Ed Christman said, "Christ's passion was the foremost of all Christian sacred journeys", and the production of the Passion Play plants this story into the Wake Forest Campus and Community.

Jesus Christ, played by sophomore J.P. Stephens, gives his sermon on the mount speeches to the multitude of people.

The Joy of Giving

"Understanding of life begins as one plants shade trees under which one will never sit."

- Billy Hamilton

excerpt from the Book of Days

When thinking about the student life here at Wake Forest many images come to mind: tailgating before a Saturday afternoon football game, going to a fraternity party on a Friday night, staying up until 4 am working on a paper, or joining friends for a game of ultimate frisbee on the Mag Quad. Sure students do a lot for Wake Forest, but they also give to the community. Volunteers abound at WFU in all areas of service. Because of Wake's strong Volunteer Service Corps, opportunities exist such as Big Brother/Big Sister programs, in which students "adopt" a little brother or sister, someone in need of a role model or friend. C.A.R.E. Volunteers participate in special projects such as dances for the elderly and mentally disabled. C.A.R.E also sponsors a Christmas Carnival for underprivileged children as well as helping out at local charities such as The Ronald McDonald House. Project Pumpkin is a huge annual Halloween festival bringing hundreds of kids on campus, and involving just as many Wake volunteers.

V S C has an annual volunteering fair for students to have a chance to come and see the numerous organizations and opportunities available. Student chairpersons for all VSC projects and agencies participate in an annual VSC leadership retreat. Time is precious at a university such as Wake Forest, but many WFU students understand the rewards of giving their time to someone else who needs it even more.

H. O. P. E.

What is H.O.P.E.?

The Honduras Outreach Program Exchange provided an opportunity for eleven Wake Forest students to give ten days of service in the Honduras Village, Las Delicias. The students helped local residents put up tin roofs, construct mud walls, and install a new chimney. Villagers of Las Delicias welcomed the WFU group into their lives by playing soccer, a favorite pastime, while avoiding cow patties in the field.

The women of the village enjoyed teaching Wake students how to cook on the stoves made of mud. While the differences in language and culture may have placed barriers between the two groups, there is no doubt that the students' desire to give of themselves brought a glimpse of hope to the villagers of Las Delicias.

City of Joy

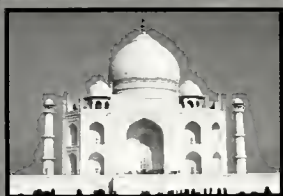

WHAT IF?

What if I was lying on the side of the road?
 Would you stop and help me?
 What if I was disfigured and lonely?
 Would you treat me with dignity?
 What if I was bleeding and covered with flies?
 Would you clean me?
 What if I was thirsty and hungry?
 Would you give me water and food?
 What if no one had ever cared for me?
 Would you love me?
 What if I was dying alone?
 Would you hold my hand and comfort me?

We are all one.
 We are all brothers and sisters.
 We are all human.
 And need love.
 We all deserve comfort.
 Despite our faults, evils, and sins.
 We are all parts of the whole.
 We are all one.

What if this person was a test of God?
 Would you succeed at it?
 What if it were you?
 Would you want to be neglected by the world?
 What if it was God himself?
 Would you pass him by?

- Jackson Williams, Class of 1998

Pardon the Mess

Dave Frisvold

While the noise and muddy mess have been quite annoying, the end result will be a wonderful addition to WFU, a new academic building housing the Psychology and Language Departments.

As the year progressed, Polo Hall, Wake's newest residence hall gradually appeared over the horizon of the Scales parking lot. The hall, which will house mainly independent upperclassmen, contains both townhouses and studio apartments. Polo is scheduled to open in time for students to move in for the Fall 1998 semester.

The new Information Support Center, located behind the Worrell Professional Center, is almost complete. This new building will house Information Systems as well as the ROTC Department. As the university continues to expand, renovations and improvements will be necessary in order to meet the growing needs of students. In the mean time, just please pardon the mess.

Jeff Coleman

Due to the massive renovations, students and faculty have had to adjust to rerouted sidewalks, new parking, and road detours.

The Days of Our Lives on the wake forest campus

Friday morning at 9:20, I wake up, shower, get dressed, and grab a bagel in Benson. I stuff it down and sleepily head to Tribble for my 10 o'clock British Literature class, wondering as I walk, "How did I ever get up at 7 am every morning in high school?" In class, my professor finally returns our papers after three weeks, and I get another C-. I resolve to never wait until the day before a paper is due to start it - just like I had resolved the previous 2 times.

At Eleven, I grab lunch with a friend. I decide on chicken tenders from the Benson grill; that way, I minimize my time in the long line.

My 12 o'clock Calculus class goes normally. I start my Spanish homework at 1:00 and rush to finish it before class at 2:00. The usual amigos are in the Spanish classroom today: the class, my professor, and her dog. I'm liberated at 3:00, the weekend has begun!

My hair looks like shag carpet and I try to talk my friend into cutting it, but she chickens out. I spend the next hour playing ultimate frisbee with my friends on the quad. We decide to bypass dinner at the Pit and go off-campus tonight. After a satisfying and cheap meal at Fazoli's, we return and unable to find a parking space, I pull into a faculty space hoping that campus police won't notice.

Back in home-sweet-Johnson, I and the building's other party-goers decide which frat parties to go to tonight and at what time. We spend about a half hour at each one, and return at 1 a.m. tired, but still substance-free. We pass by the lounge dwellers, who have been playing the same game of Risk for the last six hours, and make our way to our rooms. After a few hours of talking about girls, sports, and home, we retire to our own rooms- another satisfying day at Wake Forest completed.

WAKE me for SPRING BREAK

A much anticipated time of the year rolls around again - SPRING BREAK! A week long vacation in the middle of the semester, Spring Break is just what students weary from midterms need. What do Wake students do over Spring Break? Everything!

Some use the week to go home and spend time with their family, while others catch up with their studying. However, many take exciting trips with their WFU friends. Wake students travel all over the world, as some go to Europe, The Caribbean, Florida, or skiing in areas such as Colorado and Vermont.

Many students choose to go on VSC's Wake Alternative Break, traveling around the country to help different charitable organizations. Whether relaxing on the beach or repairing houses, students always manage to have a great time over Spring Break.

Springfest in Reynolda Gardens

While Springfest has suffered from rain for the past couple of years, this year the weather was great for the week long celebration. Student Union scheduled events such as the annual "assassins game," karaoke night at Shorty's, as well as the movie Top Gun which was shown outdoors on the Mag Quad. The main event was Saturday as students and community members gathered to hear Agents of Good Roots perform with Big Head Todd and the Monsters on the grounds of Reynolda Village.

Commencement

"Commencement marks an end to the preparatory phase of your life and the beginning of all that you are to be and do."

- President, Thomas K. Hearn

A light breeze blew over the graduates and guests as they sat in lawn chairs on the University Plaza on this warm spring day. May 18, 1998, the day of Wake Forest University's Commencement ceremony marked an end and a new beginning for approximately 1,380 graduates (825 bachelor degrees and 553 professional degrees).

White House Chief of Staff, Erskine Bowles gave the graduates seven basic principles to being happy and successful in the "grand game of life." He stressed the importance of a "family-friendly place to work and the importance of doing the little things right." He also advised graduates to always thank others, "recognize the people who help you and thank them profusely."

In President Hearn's message to the graduates, he described his Uncle William B. Cooper as a model for a well ordered life "crowned by goodness and happiness." The media highlighted Basketball Star, Mugsy Bogues, as he returned to Wake to finish his Bachelor's degree. The ceremony concluded with the traditional "Dear Old Wake Forest" Alma Mater, the last piece of music played before the benediction.

Best of Luck to all 1998 Graduates as you take these new steps of life by yourself. Remember that as long as you carry WF's memory within your heart, you will never truly be alone.

Britain and the world bid farewell to Diana, Princess of Wales, on a sparkling September morning with a grand tribute rich in pageantry. Since her death in a car crash in Paris a week before, the country had witnessed an astonishing outpouring of grief. Millions packed the city for the funeral of Diana. It was a crowd unmatched since the end of World War II. More than a million bouquets by official count were stacked outside the royal palaces. (Left)

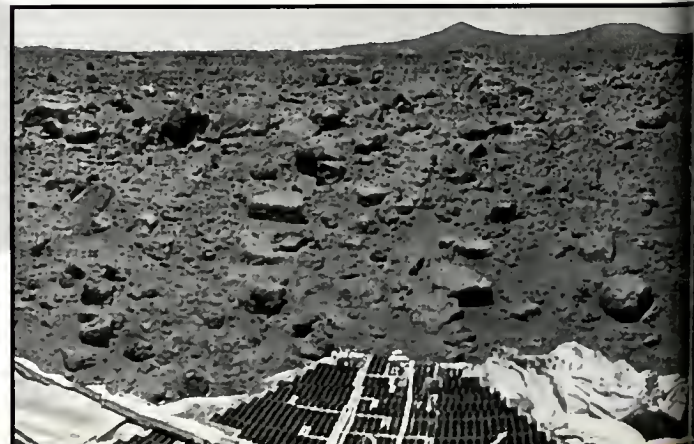

Mother Teresa was among the most well-known and highly respected women in the world in the later half of the twentieth century. A Year in Review

President Bill Clinton was the first Democratic president in 60 years to be elected to a second term. Under his presidency, the United States enjoyed the lowest rate of inflation since the 1960's, and he was the first president in 17 years to submit a balanced budget to Congress. However, a year after re-election, Clinton was under close scrutiny for campaign finance violations. Also in 1998, he faced serious allegations of sexual misconduct. (Right)

The brothers Hanson became the newest kids on the pop charts as the band's infectious single "MMMBop" and their album "Middle of Nowhere" flooded airwaves around the world. The Spice Girls have jumped into superstardom, grabbing the adoration that comes with overnight worldwide fame. Their album "Spice" hit the charts in early 1997 and stayed all year. Other popular musical groups include the Dave Matthews Band, Phish, and The Verve Pipe. Artists such as Fiona Apple, Garth Brooks, Shawn Colvin, Sheryl Crow, Paula Cole, Jewel, Tim McGraw, and Duncan Sheik have also proven to be hit sensations. Also in the media, the blockbuster, Titanic, hit the big screen in December 1997, breaking box office records and raking in several Academy Awards. (Right)

Wake Forest Football '97

Though he might not have said it publicly, Head Coach Jim Caldwell sought a breakout season in 1997. After three years of the Jim Caldwell era Wake Forest football was ready for a signature season.

The first steps towards such a season were taken at Grove's Stadium on September 6. For the second consecutive year the nationally ranked Northwestern Wildcats left Winston-Salem with a defeat. The game, a 27-20 win for the Deacs, featured the emergence of quarterback Brian Kuklick. He connected on 23 of 33 passes, nine to wide receiver Desmond Clark; one for a touchdown.

Two difficult losses followed the Northwestern win. First a 25-24 defeat at East Carolina. The following week the Deacs opened ACC play at home against Georgia Tech. An inability to stop the Jackets on third down and some questionable officiating sent the Deacs down, 28-26.

Wake Forest took center stage to a national audience on September 25. ESPN's Thursday night football came to Groves Stadium as the Deacs hosted NC State. With Wake Forest trailing 18-16 in the final minute, place kicker Matthew Berdick attempted a field goal from the twenty-one yard line. The sophomore ended the tension, calmly hitting the field goal that sent the Deacons and their fans into a frenzy.

For the second time the Deacons followed a big win with two painful defeats. The first came at Virginia. The Deacs let a late lead slip away in the fourth quarter resulting in a 21-13 loss. The subsequent week, Wake Forest traveled to Chapel Hill to challenge the nationally ranked Tar Heels. Despite the Deacons' lead at halftime, UNC prevailed 30-12.

At 2-4 the Deacons knew that they had to respond against Maryland on October 18 if they wanted to continue harboring bowl hopes. Kuklick passed for a career high 330 yards and senior Myles Savage returned a kickoff 98 yards for a touchdown as Wake Forest rolled to it's easiest win of the season, 35-17.

With the prospect of winning consecutive ACC games for the first time in the Jim Caldwell era, Wake traveled to Duke. A wild first half saw the teams tied at 24-24. In the second half the Deacons buckled down defensively, and the offensive line opened holes for the running backs. Kito Gary and Morgan Kane both rushed for scores in the fourth quarter as Wake Forest opened up the game and won 38-24.

The Duke victory set up a homecoming showdown with Clemson at Groves Stadium on November 1. Heading into the game Wake Forest knew that a win probably meant the Deacs' first bowl invitation since 1992. The game was close in the first half when Brian Kuklick suffered a season-ending knee injury. In the second half the Tiger defense effectively stopped backup quarterback Ben Sankey and their offense dominated handing the Deacons a 33-16 loss.

Down but not out, Wake Forest traveled north to play Rutgers. The Deacons emerged with a victory that evened their record at 5-5. All that remained was a season-ending matchup against Florida State. Despite Deacon hopes of an upset, the Seminoles dominated, and won 58-7.

Wake Forest finished this signature season with a record of 5-6. Not spectacular, but a marked improvement over the previous three years. The Deacons came within a few points of a winning record. Although Wake Forest did not play in a bowl in 1997, nor finish the season with a winning record, the Deacons established themselves as a contender in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Wake Forest Basketball '97 - '98

As the 1997-1998 season dawned, Coach Dave Odom and the Deacons had the unenviable task of replacing national Player of the Year, and first round draft pick, Tim Duncan. While Duncan starred for the San Antonio Spurs of the NBA, Odom emphasized team work to his crew that featured six freshmen.

After two easy victories to start the season, the Deacs traveled to Springfield, Mass., to play Georgetown in the annual Tip Off Classic. The game featured the emergence of freshman guard Robert O'Kelley, who evoked memories of Randolph Childress by scoring twenty-five points, including the game-winning shot at the buzzer.

After moving to 6-0 with wins against Richmond and Davidson, the Deacons hosted final four participant Utah. Despite twenty-four points from Tony Rutland, the Utes prevailed, riding point guard Andre Miller and a key second half surge.

On January 4, the Deacons began the ACC season with a loss to Virginia. But the team responded with a compelling win at home against Clemson. Tony Rutland, back in the starting lineup after a one-game hiatus, scored fifteen points, all on three-point shots, as the Deacs prevailed, 70-66.

The Duke Blue Devils were ranked second in the country when they came to Lawrence Joel Arena on January 14th. The story was not so much the game (the Devils won by 36), but the events at practice the following day. Citing the fact that the sophomore places too much pressure on himself, Dave Odom suspended center Loren Woods. Without Woods, Wake Forest rallied three days later. In perhaps their best performance of the year, the Deacons raced to a 10-0 lead and never looked back as they beat Maryland 72-60. Niki Arinze led the way with a double-double and O'Kelley chipped in with seventeen points.

On January 31, Wake Forest played host to North Carolina. For the first twenty minutes the Deacons were automatic from behind the arc, firing a record barrage of threes that provided a twelve-point halftime lead. But Wake could not maintain its torrid pace and the Heels awoke in time to leave Winston-Salem with a 79-73 win.

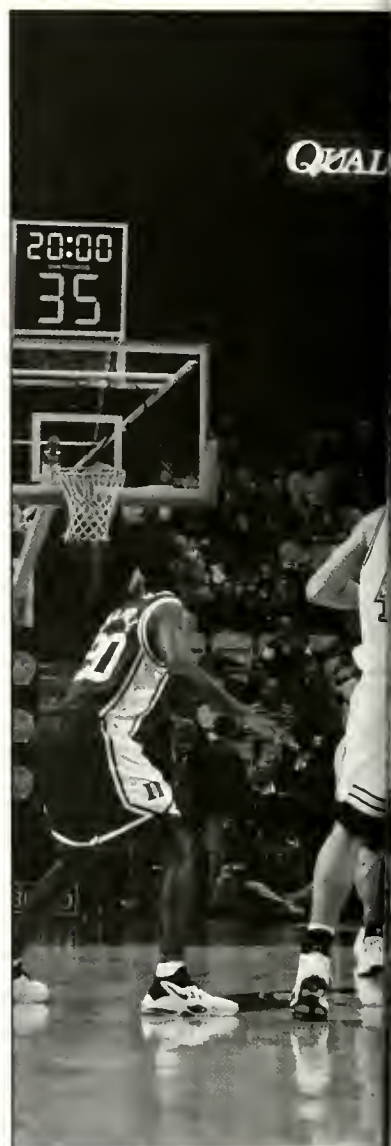

Loren Woods returned to the lineup in mid-February against Georgia Tech. Two thundering second half dunks electrified the crowd. But with one minute remaining the Yellow Jackets held a nine point lead. That's when things got really wild. The Deacons hit five three-pointers, the last, by O'Kelley, tying the game. After a Tech free throw Wake had one last chance to win the game, but neither Rutland nor Arinze got a good luck at the basket as each missed potential game-winners.

The loss to Tech meant that any post-season hopes that the Deacons had depended on the regular season finale, against North Carolina State. On Senior Day Tony Rutland responded with a career high twenty-eight points. Jerry Braswell started and played his best game of the season, scoring fourteen points as the Deacons beat the Pack by a final score of 71-57.

A first round loss to Clemson in the ACC tournament meant that the Deacons and their fans would have to wait anxiously to see if the team would make the NCAA's field of 64. When the invitation did not come, Dave Odom reluctantly accepted a bid to the NIT. There the Deacons ended with a difficult loss to Vanderbilt, and a final record of 16-14.

The conclusion of the season brought to an end the Wake Forest careers of three seniors: Tony Rutland, Jerry Braswell, and Steven Goolsby. As the trio departs, Deacon fans look forward to several more years from a core of freshmen that includes ACC rookie of the year Robert O'Kelley.

About Entertainment

Laughter. Music. Dancing. All around fun. These are just some of the good vibes that Wake's arts and entertainment groups keep spreading throughout the year. Their talents highlight numerous campus events including Lovefeast, football and basketball games, and SpringFest. Their popularity is astounding. From the low comedy of the Lilting Banshees to the high grace of the Dance Company, they present a full spectrum of talent that is utterly unforgettable.

Some features of the year included In Search of a Corner, the Gospel Choir Extravaganza, the Ring Theater productions, and the Dance Company's fall and spring performances. Wake is also the home of several student bands that perform at local clubs and fraternity parties.

Agape

Agape is a non-denominational Christian women's vocal ensemble. In the spirit of Pro Humanitate, Agape commits most of its time to ministering in prisons, homeless shelters, rest homes, and rehabilitation centers. Agape members also strive to exemplify the unconditional love of Christ within the Wake Forest community itself.

About Communication

Wake Forest's student-run media and publications offer outlets for the varying views and opinions of students. These groups serve the university in numerous ways. These include acting as historical records of University events, providing a springboard for deep intellectual discussions, and serve as media for campus social changes. Putting together a publication or broadcast requires a significant time commitment. As a result, those involved in these groups often consider "Pub Row" (the fifth floor of Benson) a second home.

Dave Frisvold

This year the Old Gold and Black made some dramatic changes to the paper. The newspaper was completely redesigned to make the layout more dramatic, modern, and readable. For the first time in recent history, the OG&B hired its own photography staff to complete the deadline assignments for the newspaper. Circulation was also increased to provide newspapers to more areas on campus.

The OG&B continued to provide balanced coverage of the University in the weekly newspaper, increasing coverage of Greek life and minorities on campus. The OG&B maintained use of its website to broadcast the weekly paper and also created an "Update" section to provide students with access to stories that break during the week.

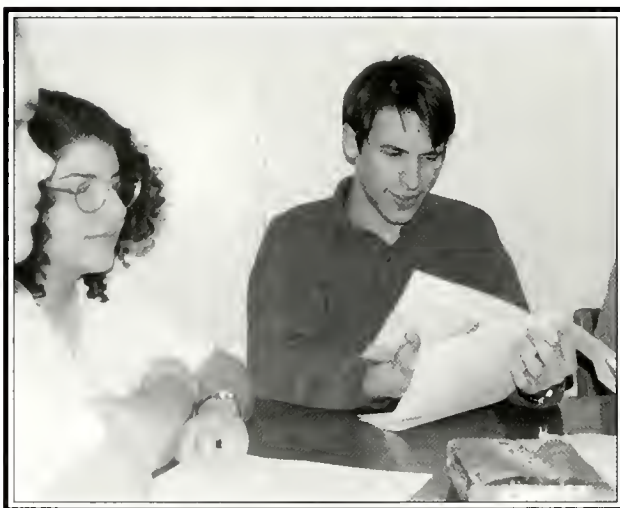

Approximately 50 students came together each week to produce the Old Gold and Black. A business staff of five students handled subscriptions, advertising, and business needs for the newspaper.

Philomathesian

The Philomathesian is Wake's non-fiction publication. With its production staff, the nine-person editorial staff sifts through student submissions twice a year to compile this unique publication. The Philomathesian publishes well-written submissions from academic writings and editorials to music reviews. After selections are made, the editors work closely with the original authors to polish the writings in a two-week editing process. The final product is then distributed across campus once a semester.

Publications Board

The Wake Forest Publications Board consists of seven campus media organizations that employ a variety of formats to publicly disseminate the work of students. The Pub Board's purpose is to generate communication between the member groups. It promotes interest in journalism and student media activities and is responsible for maintaining high ethical standards for the University Publications. In addition, the board oversees the appointment of new publications leaders.

About Faith

At Wake, 1998 was the Year of Religion. It was a time to recognize the role of religion in American life. But while the university used prestigious speakers to highlight the year, one cannot forget the impact of student-run organizations on the spirit of Wake Forest. These groups were the initial spark of faith long before the idea of the Year of Religion was conceived, and these groups will continue to fan the flames of spirituality long after this year is passed.

These groups offer a wide variety of ways to help students acknowledge and nurture their spiritual selves. From community dinners to retreats, these groups offer fellowship for students of numerous faiths. For so many students, the opportunity to unite with those of a similar faith is just as important as worship services. But these groups are not internally focused. Many display their faithfulness through various service projects that benefit the Wake Forest community as well as Winston-Salem. For these groups, it's all about sharing with others.

Volunteer Service Corps

The Volunteer Service Corps (VSC) conducts numerous service projects throughout the year that benefit Wake Forest and the Winston-Salem community.

About Concerns

Wake's special interest groups serve as outlets for students to actively participate in changing the social climate of the university. These groups represent minority and majority opinions on numerous issues from homosexuality to environmental issues on campus. These organizations allow concerned students to get involved in enriching campus life.

Groups not photographed include the Black Student Alliance, Amnesty International, College Republicans, ECOS, El Club Hispano, International Club, Model United Nations, NAACP, and the Women's Issues Network.

ARCH

The Alliance for Racial Harmony (ARCH) is devoted to working towards increased racial and cultural awareness and understanding on the Wake Forest campus.

The Euzelian Society Academic Society celebrated its third year back on campus this year. The Society sponsored a fall colloquium series exploring human rights issues and a spring colloquium series exploring interpretations of the Apocalypse. Among the social events this year were a trip to the Holocaust Memorial in Washington, D.C., a poetry slam atop Hanging Rock, a trek back to Old Wake Forest, a planning retreat on the North Carolina coast, a week-long celebration of the Renaissance in April, coconcluded by a Madrigal Banquet.

The Society motto, "I will find a way or I will make one," and the Society symbol, the Greek upsilon, both symbolize a collective attempt to create a forum on campus for intellectual discussions outside of the classroom. Besides the semester-long colloquium series, the Society holds social events that try to combine the intellect and the spirit. All Society events are open to the Wake Forest community. Remember: If you have a mind, Euz it!

About Energy

Wake's sports organizations range from those who run wildly on the field to those who cheer from the sidelines. The members of these groups show up to games and matches with invigorating energy that stand in sharp contrast to the weary countenances.

WFU Club Field Hockey has succeeded in having four competitive seasons since it started. The team is open for men and women. It plays both home and away games and holds weekly practices.

The Wake Forest Club Swim Team participates in various intercollegiate meets throughout the year. The group's competitions included meets at Chapel Hill, Elon, Auburn, as well as the IM meet and the Big Four where both the girls and guys placed in second place.

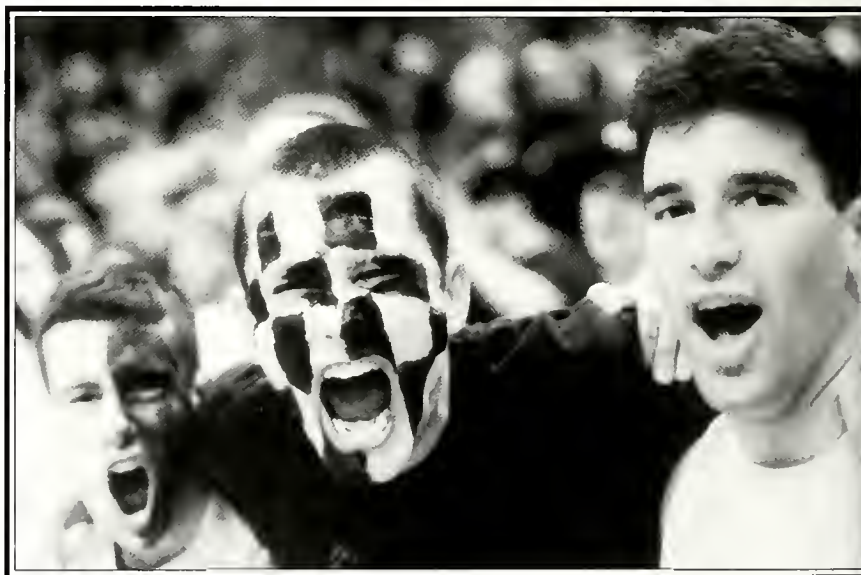

Freakin' Deacons

In their first year out, the Freakin' Deacons created quite a stir on campus as well as at basketball games with their own style of support for Wake basketball. This renegade group of fans make themselves seen and heard with their own cheers, signs and body paint. In their bright yellow shirts, the Freakin' Deacons certainly stood out from the crowd at LJVM.

Reflecting With Beth Ritter

English/ Spanish/ Education

Well, to describe my four years at Wake, the highs and the lows, would be an amazing story. A brief reflection could never truly convey the essence of my experience. So much has happened and there is so much to tell, yet it is the little things, once taken for granted, that I hold dearest to my heart. My most vivid memories of Wake are not compiled in some great 48-hour weekend. They are probably more of a conglomerate of my Freshman and Sophomore years. I fondly remember times sitting in the lounge with my friends or going to dinner and just talking. Now that I'm living off campus, I realize what I had,

During this time of growth and maturation, from adolescence to adulthood, I have sustained one friend who will surely last a lifetime, my fiancé. The best times I've ever had must be when I first got engaged. It was such an exciting feeling to drive, with both feet, into my future, and know that I would be sharing it with someone I truly love. The engagement brought about so many things. It was nice to see so many people happy and to see all my family and friends united and sharing something in common.

The time since the engagement has gone so fast. The following semester, I went abroad with WPU's program to Salamanca. It was hard being apart and trying to manage a happy and healthy relationship. Now that my fiancé and I live together off campus, I have learned so much more about him, which has really enhanced our relationship. We look forward to getting married in July and settling outside of Boston. There, I plan to use my education, initially to teach English, Spanish, or direct Chorus. For this, I can draw from my unofficial triple major -- English, Spanish, and Education. (Wake does not allow declaration of a triple major). My long term goals are not just to build a career, but also to build a family. I hope to balance my career with being a mom and raising children.

I will never forget my time here, the small community, and the close relationships with all of my talented professors. As for the friends I have made, they are priceless!

Reflecting With Raam Sanbandam

English

I decided to come to Wake Forest because of its academic reputation, impressive faculty, and the personal attention that its students receive due to its small size. I have also enjoyed many of the things that Wake has been able to offer such as City of Joy and Habitat for Humanity.

Volunteering here at Wake has provided with me with some of the best experiences I've ever had. I will never forget the City of Joy trip my sophomore year. As a volunteer, I was actively absorbed into the culture and the way of life there. If I were just visiting to see the cities, I could not fully appreciate the people or the culture of India.

Our three week stay included a trip to Calcutta and an excursion to New Dehli. We were able to implement the teachings of Mother Theresa after we were fortunate enough to meet her and volunteer in her homes. I worked in Prem Dan "the house of the destitute" and in Kalighat "the house of the dying" where we performed many jobs from sweeping, mopping, and paperwork to bathing, feeding, and working with the patients. This is something I would definitely love to continue. I would like to head on to medical school and perhaps use this to propel my efforts with service in the future.

I have enjoyed my stay here at Wake. I want to leave the underclassmen with this: Don't be set on a career track. Find something that is suited for you and pursue it.

It's All About Experience

Dave Friesold

Reflecting With Becky Bogle Business/International Studies (minor)

I have never been a "stand-still" type of a person. One of the best experiences I have ever had was when I travelled to the Cashmere Mountains in India to go backpacking in the Himalayas. When I was younger and lived in Singapore, I was able to learn Martial Arts. I have always enjoyed fighting and have always loved to play sports. I guess that was the tomboy in me. So when I enrolled at Wake, I decided to keep an active life.

On a campus that emphasizes Greek life, I don't think most people would look at me and see only a Chi Omega because the sorority does not define me. I think most people see a well-rounded individual, not overly involved in one thing. One of my favorite organizations that I am involved with is the Deacon International Business Society because it combines the two things that I love, Business and International Studies.

Wake is definitely not perfect, with the lack of parking, the constant construction, and the always changing computer systems. So I guess the key is to find your niche. When I first arrived on campus, I was not the happiest person. I was your typical freshman, homesick in every way. I decided to participate in intramurals and club sports, throwing myself into volleyball, basketball, football, and Club Soccer. The fall semester provided me with an opportunity to participate in Project Pumpkin. The kids involved made everyone feel much better. In the spring of sophomore year, there was a spring concert on Davis Field that I will never forget. It felt like a holiday. These are some of the most vivid memories I have ever had here at Wake.

As I look towards the future, I want to keep up with athletics, especially the Martial Arts. I would also like to travel back overseas, perhaps with a family and my own business. I think I have been able to take advantage of my education. I would have to urge the underclassmen to do the same. I also believe that if you don't like something, then change it.

Freshman class is largest ever

By CAYCE BUTLER
ASSISTANT NEWS EDITOR

This year's freshman class is the largest ever with 942 students enrolled, but the university is keeping its pledge not to increase the size of the student body, said Martha Allman, an associate director of admissions.

Unlike the class of 1996, whose large numbers resulted from more students enrolling than projected, the size of this year's freshman class was not a mistake, Allman said. She said the office planned for a large class to make up for the smaller upperclasses and to balance the total enrollment.

Allman said 90 percent of the freshman class graduated in the top 20 percent of their high school class. She also said the mean SAT scores for the class continued a recent trend by surpassing the scores of last year's class.

Allman attributed the increase to the applicants themselves not to a change in admission policy. "We are drawing a stronger applicant pool. More top students are looking at and selecting Wake Forest," she said.

However, the increased selectivity has made the university's goal of 10 percent black students more difficult to achieve because the kind of minority

"I didn't want to go to Carolina because of the diverse lifestyles. At Wake Forest I knew most people would be basically the same."

students sought are being highly recruited by schools all over the country, Allman said.

Black students compose six percent of the incoming class, while total minority enrollment is 10 percent, she said.

The geographic character of the freshman class is consistent with recent years, Allman said, with representatives from 40 states and four foreign countries. North Carolinians compose 26 percent of the class. Although the homogeneous nature of the school is a drawback for some incoming freshmen, others find it to be an attractive feature.

Freshman Whitney Lester said the lack of geographic and ethnic diversity "... was the one thing that bothered me about Wake Forest."

However, freshman Darrell Carter attributed the deciding factor between the university and the University of North Carolina to homogeneity. "I didn't want to go to Carolina because of the diverse lifestyles. At Wake Forest I knew most people would be basically the same."

The freshman class includes 67 valedictorians, 65 presidents of student government, and 188 captains of at least one athletic team.

Class of 1998

Treasure your college memories, Class of '98

Soon to be graduates should reflect upon their changing years at the university.

I feel I must unabashedly address my class, the soon-to-graduate Class of 1998 and share my thoughts on our days together. As the curtain now drops on our undergraduate life, what memories will we have to carry with us of these four magical, budding years? Our tenure here has been tempered by both sweet and bitter days, days of discourse and of debate, tolerance and challenge, innocence and experience. This is my tribute to our experience, to our school, and to these days I've so loved.

The Pit was a cafeteria, not a fast food strip, when first we dined there, and it wasn't lit up like Times Square. There was no frozen yogurt, no designer gourmet coffee and no Pizza Hut delivery in covered golf carts. Krispy Kreme was open twenty-four hours and the Dessertery wasn't quite so swank.

Our ID cards wouldn't pick up the laundry tab, and the dorms didn't lock until the witching hour. There was no cushy air-conditioning to ease the sweltering heat of August and September, no labels to decode the mangled halls of Tribble Hall, no high-tech, ergonomic, slouch-back rubber desks and no newfangled Ethernet connection sockets.

Life was, looking back on it, happy, and somehow simpler. Students still used answering machines, word processors and Macintoshes, still saved quarters for their laundry and still kept fans in their windows. Vegas was a computer lab, not a Spring Break destination. The med school was called Bowman Gray, and the business school, Babcock. Luter Residence Hall was Greek-free, Babcock, man-free. And, you could enter campus from Polo Road after ten o'clock.

We watched, somewhat green-eyed, as the laptops started to dot the campus, marveling at the university's technological revolution yet quietly fearing our educational experience had already become obsolete. We shared the wisdom of William Reinquist, James Earl Jones, Tony Campolo and Harold Kushner, the music of Itzak Pearlman, George Winston, They Might Be Giants and the Indigo Girls, and the enchantment of Diane Sawyer, Ted Koppel, A.R. Ammons, Alec Baldwin and our own Maya Angelou. Life has been rich.

We cheered Randolph, Rusty, Timmy and Tony to Atlantic Coast Conference glory, applauded the debate team's national title, and welcomed the Euzelians and Philomatheans back into the annals of University history. We tearfully buried nine of our peers, a president emeritus, a Wachovia teller, a Mag Room server and a soccer coach. Memories, shared and alone, lurk around every corner of our Alma Mater. I walk around the Quadrangle and see the luminaries aglow for the Love Feast and chuckle at the toilet paper roll lodged in the tree.

I think of the friends I made at Pre-School; a stolen kiss on Davis Field; all-night paperwriting in the computer lab; awkward freshman mixers on the Mag Patio; the shadow of Wait Chapel in the clouds on a foggy night; an insufferable Calculus class; the attentive ears and shared shoulder of a friend when my grandmother died; the swings outside Scales; a quiet moment in Davis Chapel; long heart-to-hearts in Shorty's; a professor who culminated my world with poetry; saunters through Reynolda Gardens and eating Hero House subs by the waterfall.

I think of Venice, of which memories of my fall semester haunt me daily. I can walk around here and in my mind go back to the music of the gondoliers, the regalia of the Regatta, the still water of the dark canals; the aroma of paine dolce; the majesty of Casa Atton and the camaraderie of the family life there. All of these memories have forever tied my heart and soul to that place and to its people.

The poet William Wordsworth wrote that his one-time vision of "a host of golden daffodils" often flashed in his mind when he lay reposed on his couch, pensive and placid.

May the class of 1998, as we with fear-tinged excitement sally forth to start life anew, forever cherish and preserve the memories that we together made during these all too fleeting years.

Like Wordsworth, may we reap enjoyment and solace from those memories when they are no more than photographs and echoes in our minds. More than classes, it will be those remembrances that will last.

Not long ago, my friend and history study partner asked me, "Do you remember when we stayed up all night the eve of Dr. Barefield's final, cramming in names and dates, and choking down bitter coffee to keep ourselves awake?"

"And in the morning," I continued, "waiting at the doors of the Pit as they opened, scarfing down omelets, and then blasting the 'O Fortuna' chorus from Carmina Burana in your car, just as the sun was rising over Scales?"

"That was awesome," he said. "Yeah," I agreed. We laughed and shook our heads.

"I don't remember that test very well," he said. "No," I replied. "Me neither."

Reflecting With Patrick Depenbrock

Physics

Upon looking back on my acceptance to WFU, I realize that this was the only place for me. I had been accepted to Princeton to play football and row crew, but after visiting Wake's campus the people I met sold the school. I felt right at home and got a real sense of peace. But what made Wake stand out the most was the feeling that God had led me to it. As a member of Forest Fire Christian Fellowship as well as the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, I've received so much spiritual guidance and support which I feel has sustained me through these last four years. The friendships I have made are priceless and hopefully these will be friends that I can call on later in life.

Academics at Wake were fun as well as rigorous. Balancing school and football provided me with a challenge, because Physics did not come naturally to me. Thankfully, God has blessed me with such accolades as Omicron Delta Kappa, one of the various honor societies here.

As for my plans after Wake, I have been accepted and plan to attend Wake Forest University School of Medicine (formerly Bowman Gray). While there, I want to pursue my medical degree and go on to be a general surgeon in the Army. As a member of the Athletes Care Team, I have learned to appreciate medicine and love science, but in my heart I will always be an outdoors guy, roughing it. If all works out, I hopefully will get into Ranger School and get the opportunity to be a part of Special Forces. I also have a desire to do missionary work in Africa. It's so hard to make up my mind because I want to do so many things.

I want to leave you with some words of wisdom. Do not buy into the old adage of "enjoy the college experience while you can," instead, focus on making a difference in other people's lives. Do not let campus activities, athletics, or social groups mask your true self. If God is a part of your college foundation you will be better prepared for life after college. I look to the words of Evander Holyfield, someone I feel to be an inspiration. He was an underdog who never paid attention to the skeptics. After winning the heavyweight title he said, "I walk by faith and not by sight." With such advice, there is no way you can go wrong.

In Loving Memory of ...

Here is my Angel Theory--I think that Alex was really an angel. Yeah, a real-life, wings and halo angel. What happened was that he got bored just hangin' out in Heaven all the time (too much white and not enough camouflage), so he decided to sneak out of Heaven for a little while. Alex had a good time on Earth, and he made lots of friends, but finally God noticed it was a little quiet up in Heaven and sent out a search party. When the Archangel Michael found Alex, he just laughed. "What were you thinkin' boy--angels don't need diplomas!" So he took Alex home. I sure am glad I got to know him first though--you don't meet angels every day. Or do you?

--Martin Price

When I Think of You

When I think of you, dear friend,
It's with a happy state of mind,
For the laughter and good times we've shared
Have not been left behind.

When I think of you, dear friend,
It is with a thankful heart,
For the kindness and the care you've shown,
And the comfort you impart.

When I think of you, dear friend,
It is with uplifted soul,
For the way God put you in my life--
The half that makes me whole.

Poem about Alex Gedicks

by Namita Gedicks, his mother

No man is an island
No man stands alone
Each man's joy
Is joy to me,
Each man's grief
Is my own.
We need one another,
So we will defend
Each man
As my brother
Each man as my friend

Alex Gedicks

On Friendship from The PROPHET

by Kahil Gibran

And a youth said, "Speak to us of Friendship."
And [the Prophet] answered, saying:
Your friend is your needs answered.
He is your field which you sow with love and reap with thanksgiving.
And he is your board and your fireside.
For you come to him with your hunger, and you seek him for peace.
When your friend speaks his mind you fear not the "nay" in your own mind, nor do you withhold the "aye."
And when he is silent your heart ceases not to listen to his heart;
For without words, in friendship, all thoughts, all desires, all expectations are born and shared, with joy that is unacclaimed.
When you part from your friend, you grieve not;
For that which you love most in him may be clearer in his absence, as the mountain to the climber is clearer from the plain.
And let there be no purpose in friendship save the deepening of the spirit.

Greg Wilson

Greg was the embodiment of a brother and a friend to all. We are grateful we knew him for even the short time he was here.

The 1998 Howler is the 96th edition of Wake Forest University's yearbook. It is produced by the Student Publications Board. Funding for the publication is provided by the University through the Student Budget Advisory Committee in an allocation process.

The Howler offices are located in Room 500 of Benson University Center. All correspondence should be sent to P.O. Box 7306, Reynolda Station, Winston-Salem, NC 27109. The office telephone number is (336) 758-5289.

This edition has 352 pages and a trim size of nine by twelve inches. The press run was 2700 copies. Paper is 100 pound gloss. The first sixteen pages were printed on UV coated paper. Smyth sewn binding, rounding, and backing with headbands were used. Four color processing is on 64 pages and spot color is on 48 pages. This edition was printed by Herff Jones Publishing Company in Charlotte, NC. Our sales representative was Joanne Lewis. Advertising was solicited by Future 1st Global, Inc. out of Marietta, GA.

Color and black and white photographs for the 1998 Howler were taken by members of the Wake Forest University Photography Staff. Film used included Kodak TMax 100, 400, and 3200, Fuji Color 800, and Fuji Chrome Provia, Velvia, Sensia, and Astia. All black and white photographs were developed by the Photography Staff. Color slides were Talton Technologies and Photo Lab. Portraits were taken by Carl Wolf Studios of Sharon Hill, Pennsylvania. The cover photograph was taken by Geoff Coleman.

Various fonts were used on the Opening pages. Division page fonts were Barmeno Bold and New Berolina MT. Fonts varied throughout the sections. Page numbers were in Palatino 12 point while the folios were in 12 point Woodtype Ornaments and Barmeno Regular. All photography credits were in Palatino 6 point.

Opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the trustees, administration, faculty, staff, or students of Wake Forest University. Editor's Note

The Editor's Note is a yearbook convention dating back to who knows when. I find it very odd to take part in this tradition when everyone who has worked so hard on this book knows that the 1998 Howler was anything but conventional. From the change in editor half-way through the year, to the adoption of an explicit theme (something not done at Wake since 1992), this book has been breaking conventions. This book, without a doubt, had a purpose -- to give every member of the Wake Forest community a tangible connection to the 1997-98 school year for years to come. The Howler staff and I wanted to make this book all-inclusive. We wanted to fully represent every facet of the Wake Forest experience so that each person could look through the pages of this book and be able to connect with something from a word or phrase to a picture. With that in mind, I selected the theme, "It's All About 1998." Though it was inspired by a popular hip hop song, I felt that anyone would be able to relate to this catch phrase of 1998 for there are always times when one feels that life is dominated by one thing -- a class, graduation, computers, friendships, work, love, etc.

This is the section that I have looked forward to doing the most-- the part where I can thank all those who made this book possible. First, and foremost, I would like to thank Cassie Rich, without whose technical expertise I could never have edited this book. I thank her for the nights of sleep she lost to make deadlines, for her skill, and most important, her support. Next, I would like to thank Taryn Toval whose curiosity and criticisms led to the birth of a very unique opening to this book. In addition, I must also thank the 1971 Howler staff. Their creativity transcended the decades and was truly inspirational. Thank you to Jen McCorkle and Ashley Buchanan who spontaneously took on editorial positions. Ladies, you were Godsend to me. I extend heartfelt appreciation to Tamara Beavers for being there from beginning to end. You weathered the bumps of this year and your hard work and help did not go unappreciated. Adia, thank you for lending me your ever-sympathetic ear and for allowing me to twist your arm and drag you into all of this. To all of the other staff members, Betsy, Meredith, Madeleine, Sedric, Kay, and Terri, you should be truly proud of the work you did. It goes without saying that you all were the backbone of this year's staff.

Of course I must thank Kristin Thompson and the entire Photo Staff for the great work that makes this book worthwhile. Thank you all for embracing the theme and working so hard this year. The yearbook just wouldn't be the same without your work. You are a group of vivacious individuals and were a true pleasure to work with. You all enlivened me, frustrated me (Carlton), and taught me a lot about patience and photography. Your energy really kept me going. I must extend a special thanks to Geoff Coleman whose talented photography is featured on the cover. Thank you to those who shared with us their memories of the students we've lost this year. We dedicate the Memorial pages to these lost classmates and to those who loved them so dearly.

A special note of gratitude must go to our Herff Jones representative, Jo Lewis. Her support of my goals and decisions was invaluable. I don't know what I would have done without her to answer my frantic calls, emails, and faxes. Jo, I promise to remove your number from speed dial on my phone. Over the past months, you have acted as the number one champion of the 1998 Howler and as a personal friend. Your help will not be forgotten. Lastly, I must thank my family, Missy, and Mike Poole who encouraged me fully this year in this, my latest insanity. You will never know how much I needed that.

In closing, I would like to say that this year was an experience I will always carry with me. Though the book comes out in the fall of 1998, I will not know for many years if my true goal was accomplished. If, in ten years, someone pours over these pages and uncovers a previously lost memory of a feeling, person, or event, only then can I declare the 1998 Howler a success. Congratulations to my fellow members of the Class of '98 and farewell to Wake Forest.

DeAnna M. Lewis
